How about these colors? Come celebrate with us the gallery's 2nd anniversary!

Repainting is completed, and we couldn't be happier with the new look for our gallery at 708 Toulouse! The photos in this missive -- except where noted -- were taken this past weekend by Sophie Germer, moonlighting from her regular job as a photographer with The Advocate newspaper.

Huge thanks are due to contractor
Gustavo Bernhard of BR Pro
Painting Inc for his patience and the great work fixing and refinishing all these walls, and to carpenter Aaron Maras for the custom displays for the gallery's prints found in the "Tile Room", replacing the plastic or chrome & canvas displays utilized previously.

Gallery reopening date is this Thursday, October 25th at noon.
We look forward to welcoming you to the "new rooms"!

Marking the gallery's Second Anniversary!
Join us on November 9th from 7-10pm for the return engagement of the Leroy Jones Quintet.

To give a little taste of one of our evening Music + Art events, here's previously unseen video of the Leroy Jones Quintet in performance at the gallery a year ago.

Video by gallery intern Sofia Rigio.

Continuing the anniversary celebration, Tuba Skinny -- seen here in a photo taken by Kevin Zansler a year ago during the 1st Anniversary party -- will return to the courtyard on Monday November 12th from 7-9pm, their third time at the gallery.

Scene By Rhys Art Gallery is a proud sponsor of local NPR station WWNO -- an important community resource. Listen-in the week of November 5th to hear our spots promoting the gallery's anniversary events.

Any questions, contact us at 504-258-5842 or emilie@scenebyrhys.com.

Contact us anytime for information or to make comments about the work. Have a look at the website, and please stop in at the art gallery located centrally in the beautiful and historic French Quarter in New Orleans.
