Summer...In To Fall

From the Scene by Rhys Art Gals - Emilie Rhys and Esther Rose at 708 Toulouse (Courtyard) in New Orleans!

As the summer season winds down we are shifting our attention ahead to autumn, which in New Orleans - as most anywhere - is beautiful. And here at the gallery we are gearing up for our One Year Anniversary Celebrations which will take place the weekend of November 11-12. We will send out a special short newsletter announcing our plans to mark this accomplishment. Great excitement was felt by all when the artist and her work caught the eye of local WWL-TV anchor Mike Hoss late last year which finally culminated in his production of a two-minute TV feature this spring. More on this below.

The following photos are to introduce two lovely ladies, Amy Stone (L) and Windy Johnson (R), who have been filling in at the gallery for Esther this summer while she's been out-of-town visiting family and friends and doing some exciting recording projects, and they'll be on hand after her return.

We hope you will enjoy reading about our progress, but if you find that you aren't interested please don't send us to your "spam" folder - simply click on the "unsubscribe" tab located at the end of the newsletter.

IN THE NEWS: WWL-TV

Anchor Mike Hoss is seen here interviewing Emilie Rhys at the Scene By Rhys Art Gallery the afternoon of May 31st, 2017 for a feature on the woman and the work that aired June 7th, 2017. Tom Moore is behind the camera filming the interview. Then Mike and Emilie are seen at Prime Example Jazz Club after he and Tom filmed Emilie at work drawing musicians the night of May 24th. Photos by Esther Rose. View the WWL-TV feature below.

In homage to the inspiration of their music and image, a percentage of all sales (not including framing costs) is paid to the musicians/bands depicted in each artwork – whether originals or prints.

Our first summer proved especially challenging due to unprecedented heavy rains in June, July and early August, nearly every day. Even so, we have so enjoyed welcoming old friends and making new ones within our gallery on Toulouse. We have started displaying large oil canvases on the gallery walls along with the pen & ink drawings, and in future as more oils are completed, we will be shifting those upstairs to the gallery office.

IN-HOUSE FRAMING

Here are a few examples of Rhys pen & ink original drawings finished in the studio with gouache paint, and framed by the artist. All are on display in the gallery at 708 Toulouse Street (courtyard entrance), near Royal.

Shipping via Fedex all across the USA.

You are welcome also to bring outside artwork for framing in the gallery.

The Stanton Moore Trio performing at Snug Harbor the night of February 18th

The Stanton Moore Trio performing at Gray Harbor the night of February 14th, 2014 - one of many epic evenings listening to greatness.

Bassist Amina Michele Scott purchased this drawing of her for her mother. We got it framed for her that afternoon so that she could get on an airplane with it the next day.

Kelly & Carolyn McGuire, happy new owners of an original Rhys drawing depicting Jason Marsalis playing vibraphone at Tableau late in 2015.

Cynthia Walker loved how we framed our print of Sarah McCoy for her!

Marde and Bob Gregory, having just added two more Rhys drawings to their collection, which graces their home in Los Angeles.

Any questions, contact us at 504-258-5842 or emilie@scenebyrhys.com.

We love the musicians of New Orleans and hope you do too! In homage to the inspiration of their music and image, a percentage of all sales (not including framing costs) is paid to the musicians depicted in each artwork - whether originals or prints. They also receive an information sheet about the artwork which includes a small photo of the artwork, and details about its creation.
